Our Expertise

Consumer Law

The market for consumer goods is competitive, fast-moving and highly regulated. Manufacturers and retailers must ensure that their goods and services comply with a range of EU and national laws and regulations. Our experienced team understand that the consequences of a failure to comply can be catastrophic, both from a legal and a reputational perspective.

We help our clients devise practical and commercially driven solutions to the complex and ever changing consumer regulatory framework. Our approach has been honed through years of experience advising a wide range of clients in diverse sectors. Our team of dedicated consumer law experts ensure that our advice is provided in a clear and concise manner with a commercially focused approach.

Product Liability

Our team has significant expertise in heavily-regulated industry sectors such as pharmaceuticals and medical devices, digital health, cosmetics, agri-food and beverage, consumer electronics and transportation, including motors, aviation and maritime.

We provide a comprehensive service to domestic and international clients. Our team includes engineers, medical doctors and claims specialists, and we provide expert advice to suppliers and retailers on product and consumer regulation and liability.

We have unique multi-jurisdictional experience in high value product liability litigation, with particular expertise in the healthcare industry. We also regularly represent clients in regulatory enforcement actions, civil claims and criminal proceedings brought under the EU Product Liability and Product Safety Framework.

Product Regulatory, Safety & Recall

Our approach is founded on an in-depth understanding of the regulatory landscape, with a strong industry and commercial focus. We give clients clear explanations of complex issues, robustly defend their interests and devise practical value-adding solutions for them.

As technology advances, we have developed significant expertise in assisting clients manufacturing new technologies including connected products, wearables, software, AI technology and apps.

We provide a comprehensive service to domestic and international clients. Our team includes engineers, medical doctors and claims specialists, and is experienced in advising manufacturers, distributors and retailers on product and consumer regulation.
